To Whom It May Concern,

It is with great pleasure that I write this character letter of recommendation for Mr. Arcello. While working with him at MEF International School in Istanbul, Turkey I learned a great deal about his character through our daily interactions. During the year Andrew was always volunteering to help out with various school activities and sports, offering his assistance in supervising and coaching. He also worked collaboratively with other staff members on scheduling duties and use of facilities, always doing what was best for the students even if it meant more work for him. That determination, devotion, and compassion speaks volumes about Andrew's character.

Andrew is a natural leader and problem solver who thinks on his feet and is level headed in his decisions. He is passionate and talented in what he does and is an excellent role model for students and his colleagues. He consistently goes above and beyond the call of duty and acts as a model team player. He is wise beyond his years, yet he has the energy of his youth, which makes for a rare, excellent combination.

I could not make a stronger recommendation to a sense of personal faith than I can for Andrew. He walks the walk of a devoted teacher, hard-worker, forward-thinker, and true friend. His strong character shines through in who he is and how he handles himself in all situations.

I highly recommend Andrew for any position in any school. He has proven himself to be well-received, experienced, and well-loved in all school situations. I am very confident that any school that is fortunate enough to hire him will agree with me, given his excellent character and professionalism.

Respectfully,

Ms. Connie Skrmetta
